

visual and performing arts professional development

Arts 101: Arts in the Classroom Workshops

The Santa Clara County Office of Education is excited to launch a new workshop series, Arts 101: Arts in the Classroom Workshops, designed to provide educators with interactive arts learning experiences that build interest, comfort, and knowledge in the arts. Workshop presenters will also guide participants through exploration of instructional strategies and ways in which to adapt teacher learning to student learning in the classroom. Classroom teachers are encouraged to attend; arts educators and community educators are welcome!

Altered Books

Presented by Julie Ulmer and Julie Van Dewark

Through a partnership between the Santa Clara County Office of Education and Montalvo Arts Center

Date: Saturday, February 2, 2008

Time: 10:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m. (lunch provided)

Venue: Montalvo Arts Center ~ The Barn
15400 Montalvo Road, Saratoga

Fee: $25 fee for workshop materials; $10 for optional lunch

Explore new perspectives on common English-language idioms and sayings, and ways to represent these idioms through mixed media. Participants manipulate a hardcover book (provided) to express the power of language and communication. Workshop includes debriefing session that focuses on the strategies and techniques utilized, and their application in the classroom. Standards in English Language Arts and Visual Arts are addressed.

To Register: (maximum 20 participants)

Online: <http://santaclara.k12oms.org/eventdetail.php?id=12899>

Questions? Please contact Aimee Ipson Pflederer, Visual & Performing Arts Coordinator
Telephone: 408.453.6587 | Email: aimee_ipsonpflederer@sccoe.org