

Arts in Your Classroom Music & Literacy

Make music/make story/make meaning!

Developing literacy skills through music making and music learning strategies

Presenter: Armando Castellano, teaching artist

Sound and music evoke a myriad of emotions and moods, implying literary elements from character and setting to conflict and resolution. Discover what you know intuitively about music while building literacy skills in powerfully engaging and fun ways. This workshop will guide participants in a creative and culturally responsive process to enter text collaboratively and stimulate oral language and writing through sound and music. Participants will work with a variety of readily accessible percussion instruments and music selections. Special consideration will be given to addressing the needs of English language learners. No prior knowledge of music required!

Grade: K-6

Date: Saturday, April 24, 2010

Time: 10:00 a.m. -1:00 p.m.

Venue: Montalvo Arts Center
Artist Residency Commons
15400 Montalvo Road
Saratoga, CA 95071

Fee: $20; includes materials, light breakfast & light refreshments

Questions: (408) 453-6578 (Lilia Agüero)

Arts in Your Classroom Workshop: Music & Literacy

This workshop is part of the Montalvo Arts Center and Santa Clara County Office of Education workshop series addressing arts learning and literacy/language development. Workshop registration includes materials. For more information on Armando Castellano and his work, visit <http://quintetolatino.org/about/armando-castellano-french-horn>

Registration deadline:
Wednesday, April 21, 2010

You must register to attend

Register online at:

<http://santaclara.k12oms.org/1050-34344>